

How High?

Now that it's legal to smoke up in Washington, I've been doing some personal comparisons, working my way through all the different strains of cannabis that I can get my hands on.

I've been taking notes on how high they get me, from 0 - no high at all - on up. I can tell it's working when I look at words, and just see shapes and symbols instead.

My friend at the dispensary couldn't remember the names of all the strains he got this time, but he remembers some things about them. Help me figure out what strains I got. Then, when you figure out how high each one will get me, you should be able to tell how high I'll get if I enjoy them all in one weekend.
