

Piiiiigs Iiiiiin Spaaaaace

First Mate Piggy was signing autographs when the ship's gravity failed, and all of her special space pens ended up floating around with the regular pens. Regular pens don't work well in space because in zero G the pig-ment doesn't flow. Waka-waka! In which case you end up writing with _____.

Use the following rules to figure out which pens are space pens and which are regular pens (refer to the lineup of pens 1-8 below when applying the rules). When you figure out which are which, shade in the space pens completely below, along with the appropriate floating debris. Your code sheet will be of help to you in this puzzle.

- Either the longest or the shortest pen is a space pen, but not both
- Only one of the space pens has a gray top
- There are an odd number of regular pens
- #4 is a space pen
- No regular pen is next to another regular pen
- Only two regular pens are labeled with an odd number
- Either #5 or #6 is a regular pen
- The longest space pen is directly to the right of a gray-topped pen
