Your name is TEREZI PYROPE. You are blind due to an unfortunate accident. You have an interest in justice, holding particular fascination for orchestrating the demise of the wicked. You hope one day to join the honorable ranks of the Legislacerators. For now, you practice the formalities of the justice system by role-playing with your extensive collection of plushie toys.

In this scene, you will play the role of the investigating prosecutor. You have discovered Ambassador Limontail brutally murdered.

It is a terrible crime! and someone must pay! possibly even the guilty!

You quickly run through a mental list of your enemies, noting which of them might be convincingly framed for the murder of the Ambassador.

It is a terrible crime! and someone must pay! perhaps merely the politically expedient!

You move the corpse, under it you find two star charts. Maybe the Ambassador was trying to leave a sign as to who murdered him.
