

Tar Trivia

Ah, to feel the salty breeze, as the captain of a vessel at sea. See if you can find some suitable advice in the following facts about life on the water, and learn what every captain needs to pass away the time between ports.

1. Land lubbers know nothing of the sea's dangers.
2. Ironically, after months at sea dehydration has killed many a sailor.
3. This is why, like modern spacecraft, galleons carried vast supplies of water.
4. It's said that in India, monkeys break into docked ships and steal food.
5. Chubby shipwreck victims are a rare sight.
6. Wind shear and salt damage can wear away at a ship's hull.
7. "When I am on duty, my word is law" - every ship's captain, ever.
8. The lowliest members of the crew have to swab the head, then shine the cannons.
