Decorating in the Fold

Owen's boss recruited him and his team to decorate the office for the holiday party by hanging up strings of lights. Rebecca was excited to get started, and pulled the lights out of storage. Irene remembered from last year's near fire, that they needed to figure out which outlets they can use. Garry reminded everyone that the wide end is the bottom and the pointy end is the top. Amy pulled out the cube farm map that they used last year and found that it was partially damaged. Mark's notes on which outlets to use were still somewhat visible. Ian was trying to remember why that last line of lights didn't fold down like the rest of the lights, but up.
